Based on search results, there are several individuals named Teppei Kimura. The most relevant person in a financial context appears to be a character played by a famous actor in a Japanese drama, as well as a general business professional, but no prominent financial analyst or stock commentator named "Teppei Kimura" appears to be a regular on CNBC. [1, 2, 3]

The search results provided information on the following:

- A fictional character: The name Teppei Kimura is associated with a character played by the famous Japanese actor Takuya Kimura in the drama series Love Generation and Karei naru Ichizoku, where the latter is about a powerful banking family. This is likely the source of the "stock" and "banking" context.
- Business Professionals: LinkedIn profiles show a few people with this name in general business roles, such as a training department manager in Japan, and a senior sales manager at a hotel.
- Other finance professionals: Other finance professionals with similar names, such as Teppei Miura (Managing Director at SMBC Group) and Teppei Tokura (Founder at TresCreo Consulting Inc. and Senior Associate at Taiyo Pacific Partners), were found but not Teppei Kimura as a CNBC personality.
